Subject: FW: Heads up forward - Internal deliberative draft manuscript on NJ soil PFAS prepared for submission to a journal: 1 of 2
Attachments: 190926 CIPPECAs & Legacies in NJ Soils manuscript.docx

Hello everyone,

I just sent a draft manuscript on the NJ Soil PFAS project to co-authors for review. I thought it worth sending the draft to you to keep you apprised and in case it might aid the pace of ORD review in that you might know better what to expect when I submit the post-authors' version to you for clearance.

You might consider this a sensitive manuscript. I name specific industries. I think doing so aids clarity, but recognize this might concern some.

The supplemental info file will follow.

Thanks!
John

Hello everyone,

Attached to this email is a draft manuscript reporting on the NJ soil PFAS project. A second email will follow with the large Supplemental Material file. I have drafted this to submit to a peer-reviewed journal after all reviews and clearances are done.

You contributed to the science reported in this manuscript and I hope you are willing to be a co-author. I have taken a shot at the author order. Please let me know if you have any concerns on your place as an author on this draft. I am sending this draft to you all for your author reviews.

I would like to try to have a teleconference next week, sometime on Wednesday or early Thursday to hear if there are any major concerns. Can you all reply to all with your availability Wednesday October 2 and Thursday October 3 between 10 AM and 2 PM? In the mean time if you have any questions or concerns beforehand, please feel entirely free to call or email me.

If we discover in our meeting next week that there are no major problems, we might be able to start the EPA clearance while us authors edit details. This would be good because EPA clearance probably will take a long time.

Erica and Sandra, in particular, would you please check and improve the sampling campaign discussion located at the front of the Supplemental Materials?

Thanks everyone!

John
